HUNTING THE SEAL.

The Evidence of Several Experienced Men Taken on the Question.

Information for the Guidance of Those in Authority—Capt. Warren Testifies.

The following correspondence and statements on the question of taking seal in Behring Sea, and bearing also upon the capture of some of the Victoria schooners, and other proceedings taken subsequent to their seizure, will be very interesting at the present time, and will be a valuable addition to the Behring Sea literature. These statements have been made at the request of the owners of the seized vessels, for transmission to the Dominion and Imperial governments, and copies have already been forwarded to those authorities, as well as to Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British Minister at Washington. It will be observed that the testimony of several of the witnesses is directly opposed to the statements made by and in the interest of the Alaska Commercial Company in regard to the killing of the seal, etc. A good deal of evidence of a similar import to what follows has been taken, but we give enough to show its scope and tenor. It is important that both sides of this question should be laid before the high court of public opinion, as well as before the two governments most directly concerned, and for this reason we submit the documents to our citizens, who are most concerned in an early and satisfactory adjustment of the difficulty. The correspondence carried on by Mr. Belyea, counsel for the owners in respect to the release of the schooners captured in 1886, will also be found interesting. The possibility of a U. S. officer being "influenced" to disregard the orders from Washington is very clearly demonstrated:

That Order to Release Schooners.

Victoria, B. C., August 17th, 1889

To Captain John G. Cox and William Munsie, Esq., Victoria, B. C.

GENTLEMEN: Re Behring Sea—In reference to the orders issued by the United States Government for the release of the British schooners Carolena, Onward and Thornton, seized in Behring Sea in 1886, and since detained at Ounalaska, I received in August last from Marshal Atkins the following letter:

District of Alaska, Office of U.S. Marshal, } Sitka, Aug. 4, '88

A. L. Belyea, Esq., Victoria.

DEAR SIR.—In reply to your letter of July 17th, I have the honor to state that in the month of February, 1887, the officers of the district court of this district received a dispatch purporting to be from U. S. Attorney General, directing the release of the schooners Onward, Thornton and Carolena, but on what was then deemed sufficient evidence, the dispatch was thought to be a forgery and no action was taken in the matter until the receipt in October last of another dispatch from the Hon. Attorney-General as follows: "Let the vessels Carolena, Onward and Thornton be released as ordered in mine of the 6th of January last." On receipt of the above dispatch I gave notice to Capt. J. D. Warren and Mr. O. Spring, of Victoria, owners of two of the vessels, and should have given the notice to the owner of the Carolena had I have known his address and name. I requested Capt. Warren to notify the owners at Victoria, and Mr. Spring published the notice I gave him in the Victoria papers. This I deemed sufficient notice to all the parties concerned. I have not received any order from Washington other than the above mentioned.

Very respectfully,

BARTON ATKINS,
U. S. Marshal.

Copy of Dispatch.

The following copy of the dispatch referred to in Marshal Atkins' letter, and of the order made thereon by Judge Dawson, of the United States district court, Alaska, I obtained shortly afterwards from the official records at Sitka:

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26, 1887.

To Judge Lafayette Dawson and M. D. Ball, U. S. District Attorney, Sitka, Alaska:

I am directed by the President to instruct you to discontinue any further proceedings in the matter of the seizure of the British vessels Carolena, Onward and Thornton, and discharge all vessels now held under such seizure and release all persons that may be under arrest in connection therewith.

A. H. GARLAND,
Attorney-General.

Copy of Order.

To Barton Atkins, U. S. Marshal for District of Alaska:

You are hereby directed to release the vessels Carolena, Onward, Thornton and San Diego, which were seized in Behring Sea for violation of section 1956, U. S. statutes, together with their tackle, apparel, skins, guns, ammunition, small boats and everything relating to said vessels.

This 10th day of February, 1887.

LAFAYETTE DAWSON,
District Judge, District of Alaska.

Another Reminder.

About the time I received the above letter I met the marshal in this city and asked him why no official notice had been given to the owners. In reply he said he thought it had been done, but if not he would attend to the matter on his return to Sitka. Such notice not coming to hand as expected, I, on the 10th of October following, wrote the marshal as follows:

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 16, 1888.

Barton Atkins, Esq., U. S. Marshal, Sitka, Alaska:

MY DEAR SIR.—You may remember a conversation I had with you when in Victoria in reference to the non-receipt of official notice of the release of the schooner Carolena at Ounalaska, by her owners. At their request, I have to ask that you will kindly forward the same to me by return mail. The owners, as you may notice on referring to the record of the court, are Munsie & Co. (Munsie & Co.), of this city.

I am, sir, very truly yours,

A. L. BELYEA,
Attorney for Munsie & Co.

The Case Summarized.

By return mail I received from the marshal a letter saying that official notice had by that mail been sent to the owners of the Carolena with an order directing the deputy collector at Ounalaska to deliver the vessel to the owners.

Copy of Letter.

DISTRICT OF ALASKA,
U. S. Marshal's office,
Sitka, Nov. 1, 1888.

Messrs. Munsie & Co., Victoria.

GENTLEMEN:—I have the honor to inform you that I have received from the Hon. Attorney General of the United States, orders to release to the rightful owners the schooner Carolena, her tackle, apparel and furniture, as she now lies at the harbor of Ounalaska, in the District of Alaska. The order on the Deputy Collector of Customs at Ounalaska to deliver to you the property is herewith enclosed. Very respectfully,

BARTON ATKINS,
U. S Marshal.

Copy of Order.

DISTRICT OF ALASKA.
U. S. Marshal's office,
Sitka, Nov. 1, 1888.

E. H. Wohl, Esq., U. S. Deputy Collector of Customs, Ounalaska, Alaska:

SIR:—You are hereby authorized and directed to deliver to the rightful owners, Messrs. Munsie & Co., Victoria, B. C., the seized schooner Carolena of Victoria, B. C., her tackle, apparel and furniture as she now lies in the harbor of Ounalaska.

(Signed.) BARTON ATKINS,
U. S. Marshal at Sitka.

Thus it was that not till nearly two years after the Washington authorities ordered the release of the vessel, and then only after asking for it, was such notice received, and to this day the owners of the Thornton and Onward have received no such official notice or order for delivery and could not if they so desired, obtain possession of their vessels.

The telegram ordering their release was received at Sitka on February 9th, 1887. The vessels were then under order for sale, which order Judge Dawson immediately revoked, and on the 19th of the same month made the order for the release above recited. This order was given to the marshal, but for the reasons, apparently, mentioned in the marshal's letters to me of August 4th, 1888, the matter dropped.

The officials at Sitka took no steps to find out whether the telegram was genuine or not, nor did they, so far as I can learn, ever acknowledge or notify the Washington authorities of its receipt. This shuffling on the part of the court, Secretary Bayard calls "some misconception and mistake," but those who know and have felt the power of the Alaska Commercial Company in Alaska, call it by a vastly different name.

I submit to you herewith the statements of Capt. Warren, James Wilson, Wm. Fewings and others, touching the percentage of seals killed by white and Indian hunters which are lost, and also of the destruction of female seals while carrying young. These statements furnish a clear refutation of the charge that out of ten seals killed by the hunters only 1 (one) is actually captured, and the equally audacious statement that the majority of seals killed are females with young.

I desire to call your attention particularly to the statement of several hunters as to the wanton and wholly illegal slaughter of young seals by the employees of the Alaska Commercial Company.

Very truly yours,

A. L. BELYEA.

James Wilson's Statement.

I was carpenter on board the sealing schooner Triumph this year. One of the hunters was drowned just before entering Behring Sea, and I took his place. I was out sealing about a week, but the weather was bad and I got only twenty-three seals. I had no previous experience. I used a breech-loading shotgun, and shot seals at a range of from ten to fifteen yards. I lost one seal through the carelessness of the boat hands, running the boat over the seal, which sank directly under the boat.

Most of the seals lost by the hunters are shot at long range with the rifle. One hunter of the Triumph this year got over sixty seals and only lost one. I never saw a cow seal with her young beside her. Out of the twenty-three I got five or six were cows carrying their young.

JAMES WILSON.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 9, 1889.

William Fewings's Statement.

I have been three years hunting seals on the Pacific coast and in Behring sea. In 1887 I was on board the sealing schooner Favorite, in 1888 on the Viva, and in 1889 on board the Triumph. In each year the vessel I was on entered the Behring sea early in July, and left the sea the latter part of August or early in September, except this year, when the Triumph left the sea on July 11th, under threat of seizure after being searched by the United States revenue cutter Rush. In 1887 the hunters I was with were partly Indians and partly whites. In the last two years the hunters were all whites, using shotguns and rifles. The rifles were used by the more experienced hunters and better shots for long range shooting, up to a hundred yards, but few hunters attempt that range. The general range for rifles is not over fifty yards, and most shots are made at a less range.

A few hunters use the rifle for all distances. I use either rifle or shotgun according to distance, the position of the seal and the condition of the water.

My first year I got four hundred seals. In getting this number I failed to capture about twenty-five, shot at or killed, but which escaped. In my second year I got over five hundred and lost about thirty. This year I got one hundred and forty and lost only one. I have frequently shot from three to five seals in a bunch and got them all. One day in 1887 I shot two bunches of five each and another of four and got the whole fourteen.

Indian hunters use spears and either spear every seal they throw at or it escapes unhurt or but slightly wounded. Indians, it can safely be said, get every seal they kill.

Oscar Scarr, a hunter on the Viva, in 1888 got over six hundred seals and lost only about twenty. The average number lost by white hunters does not exceed six in a hundred, and by Indians not six in a thousand. I have never shot nor have I ever seen a female with a young one beside her or near her. It is very seldom a female is killed in Behring Sea carrying her young, and out of a thousand killed on the coast earlier in the season, less than one-third are females carrying their young.

(Signed) WM. FEWINGS.

Victoria, B. C., August 9th, 1889.

Capt. J. D. Warren's Statement.

I am a master mariner, and have been engaged in the deep sea sealing business for over twenty years. I have owned and commanded sealing vessels on voyages along the Pacific coast from 47 deg. or 48 deg. north latitude to 56 deg. or 57 deg. north latitude, within Behring sea. I have generally employed Indians, except in 1886 and 1887, the last years I was out, when I had white hunters as well. White hunters use rifles and shotguns entirely. Indian hunters use spears. Bullets weighing from 300 to 400 grains are used with rifles, and ordinary buckshot with guns. Both rifles and shotguns are breech-loading and of the best make. Seals are approached by the hunters in boats, to within ten or fifteen yards, lying generally asleep on the water. Frequently seals are taken alive when asleep, especially by the Indians, who, in their canoes get within from a spear length (14 or 15 feet) to thirty feet before they throw. Indians rarely lose a seal they strike, and if one escapes it is always but slightly wounded. Of seals killed by white hunters, probably not over 10 per cent. are killed with rifle, which is generally used for only a long range.

Sealers divide seals for hunting purposes into two classes, "sleepers" and "feeders," or "travellers." "Sleepers" are almost always shot at from ten to fifteen yards range, and are seldom lost. "Feeders" are shot at just as their heads emerge from the water. From this fact the range is always from a few feet to 100 yards, though few are fired at at that distance. Hunters use a "gaff," a pole about ten or twelve feet long, with from one to three hooks upon it, with which

MRS. MAYBRICK'S CONDITION.

Liverpool, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Maybrick received the news of the commutation of her sentence at two o'clock this morning, and was much affected thereby, although incapable in her weak state of any marked manifestations of emotion. The chaplain of the jail visited her at breakfast time, at which hour her condition reached the weakest point since her conviction, by reason of a revulsion of feeling following the reprieve. She is now completely prostrated, and it is feared she will not live long in confinement prescribed in modification of her sentence. Briefly, Mrs. Maybrick's paramour, sailed for Boston on the steamer Syria today.

TO CROSS NEW GUINEA.

London, Aug 23—Dr. Rumboltz, a Norwegian, who has been travelling extensively in northern and central Queensland, mainly as a naturalist, and whose richly illustrative narrative Mr. Murray will publish in October, is seriously contemplating an expedition to New Guinea. It is his intention to cross the broadest part of the island and explore an utterly unknown section. New Guinea has never been crossed except at its narrowest part. It was the narrow southeastern peninsula, that Dr. MacGregor, administrator, penetrated, in order for the first time to ascend those mountains that H. O. Forbes had to take flight to save himself from the attack of natives.

STRIKES ALMOST GENERAL.

London, Aug 23.—The strike of the dockyard employees is spreading and embracing large numbers of men in other occupations. Car men employed by Pickford & Co., general carriers, are joining the strike as are also railway car men. Laborers in Spratt's biscuit factory struck and the works are closed. All unskilled labor in London threatens to join the growing movement and in the event of their doing so trouble is feared, for which the police are preparing.

ACCIDENT TO A CIRCUS.

Watertown, N. An axle broke on the second train, derailing six cars and telescoping two more, crushing everything in them. Thirty ring horses, one of the chariot teams and two camels were killed. The loss is estimated at $40,000, besides the loss of a day's receipts at Montreal, where the circus was to show to day, must be added. This will make an additional loss of between $15,000 and $18,000.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

The Proposal to Subsidize an All British Line Creates a Stir.

Ottawa, Aug. 23—The action of the British house of commons in granting a subsidy of $90,000 for the establishment of a mail service between Vancouver and Hong Kong, is creating a big stir in political circles here. It promises to revolutionize the British trade for India and China. The minutes of the bill received by the government here from the Imperial authorities state that "though the scheme is not justifiable upon postal reasons alone, it offers an alternative service, which saves several delays as compared with the Suez route, and is therefore of considerable value from a postal point of view. It has a land transit lying wholly within British territory and its military and naval authorities believe it to be of the highest importance." The offer of the company to construct mail steamers which could be employed by the admiralty as armed cruisers in case of need also accords with the policy already adopted in the case of certain other large steamship companies. The service between Halifax, Quebec and Hongkong, will be one continuous and complete service. At intervals of four weeks vessels will sail at Yokohama and Shanghai. The contract will run ten years. The admiralty clause provides for the conveyance of troops and supplies at cost. The Canadian Pacific will present an alternative route for Australian and New Zealand mails. At present those mails, when sent through America, travel by way of New York and San Francisco, and a specially high rate is paid for United States land transit. Under the proposed contract it will be possible to send them by way of Quebec or Halifax and Vancouver, on payment of ordinary postal union rates of transit to the Canadian postoffice, and possibly the mail route by way of the Pacific to Australia will be diverted from San Francisco to Vancouver.

Movement Amongst the Dry Bones—Behring Sea Question Uppermost.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—All the ministers are expected to be here on September 15th, when a cabinet council to inaugurate preparations for next session will be held. Parliament will meet early in January.

The two recent seizures in Behring Sea have caused the utmost indignation here. The Dominion Government has wired such information to the Imperial authorities.

Special cables to-day from London, England, say the feeling there over the conduct of the Americans and the apathy of the British Government is intense.

EQUAL RIGHTS.

Progress of the Movement and what Hinders it.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—The secretary of the Montreal branch, of the Equal Rights Association, says the membership of that branch is filling fast but Protestants show a dislike to offend their Catholic neighbors by publicly identifying themselves with the Equal Rights movement. There was a difficulty in convincing Catholic fellow citizens that the revolt at the Jesuit Act was not an attack upon the Catholic church. The county of Pontiac has formed an addition and will hold a mass meeting next month. Branches of the association are expected to be formed in most of the city wards; meantime every effort has been made and is being made to find a way of testing the Jesuit Act in court.

FOUR MURDERERS HANGED.

A Quartette of New York Murderers Swung Into Eternity.

New York, Aug. 23.—Four murderers were hanged in the Tombs this morning. They were Nolan, Packanham, Lewis and Carolan. The first two were hanged at 6:49 o'clock and Lewis and Carolan at 7:03. The executions went off without a hitch. Lewis was strangled to death and Carolan protested his innocence on the scaffold. For the first time in the history of the Tombs, four murderers expiated their crimes within a few minutes of each other.

The situation of the gallows, on each of which two men were hanged, was such that an interval of five minutes was necessary between the two double executions. Though the gallows were a considerable distance apart, the noise of the drop which first sent Packinham and Nolan out of the world must have been plainly heard by Lewis and Carolan. The four men went out of the world firm in the belief of their salvation in God. The scenes in the little chapel where mass was said this morning, and subsequent farewells between the men, were very impressive. Two Catholic priests, who administered consolation to the men during the last hours, staid with them until the last minute. The noise accompanying the hangings inside the prison must have plainly been heard by Giblin, the respited murderer.

Preparations for conducting the first of the condemned two to be executed to the gallows, commenced about 6:30. At 6:35 a jury composed entirely of newspaper men was placed in position. At 6:45 Carolan and Lewis were taken across the prison yard to the boys' prison, where they were pinioned. Carolan was smoking and puffing hard at a big cigar. As soon as Lewis and Carolan had been transferred, the sheriffs and priests that conducted them both returned, and a moment later the hangmen were instructed to make the preliminary preparations for the hanging of Packinham and Nolan. As soon as these were completed the hangman returned to his place under the gallows tree, and in a few moments Packingham and Nolan were led out on the way to the scaffold. The sheriff and under sheriff led the way while the condemned were flanked on one side by priests and on the other by officers. They walked with firm steps, but their faces wore anxious expressions. Both men looked around as they walked to the gallows, glancing from one reporter to another as though hungrily searching for a familiar face. They had only about thirty feet to go and were soon placed under the cross beam. Both had already been pinioned and the black caps were on their heads ready to be drawn over their faces. Nooses were likewise about their necks as the men had emerged from prison at 6:48, and two nooses were adjusted a minute later, the black caps drawn and the rope holding the weight was cut in a twinkling and the bodies of the murderers shot up in the air, distant about four feet, and fell back to within two feet of the ground. The contortions of the culprits were very weak, and it was evident their necks had been broken. Packinham died in seven minutes, while Nolan survived one minute longer. They were allowed to hang some thirty minutes before being cut down and placed in coffins. The most moving scene about this hanging was the awful expression upon the faces of the men as they took their places under the gallows. Nolan's jaw hung down, his lips quivered and for a moment he looked as though he would collapse. He quickly recovered himself, and although his lips still trembled, there was a regular motion which showed he was repeating prayers. Packinham was also evidently praying. The priests stood by each of the condemned men whispering words of consolation in their ears to the last moment. Both the condemned were staring ahead at the bare wall of the prison when the caps were drawn. The knot of the noose about Nolan's neck slipped a little to the back causing a slight abrasion at the back of his neck and gradually blood trickled down over his shirt collar. It was supposed the noose had cut the skin as it tightened, but attendant physicians said it was merely due to extreme tension on a sore which had been on his neck for some time, as the result of disease from which Nolan was suffering. The bodies were finally cut down after hanging a little over half an hour, placed in coffins and turned over to friends.

Winnipeg, Aug. 23—Goldwin Smith addressed a fair sized audience last night on questions of social economy.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Toronto, Aug 23.—Mrs. Eldridge, wife of T. B. Eldridge, treasurer of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., of this city, while returning home on the steamer Cibola this morning and when about three miles out, threw herself overboard, but was promptly rescued in spite of her struggling by a party of fishermen near by. It is supposed her mind is unsound.

DISTRESS IN LABRADOR.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—Rev. Mr. McKenzie, a Presbyterian missionary in Labrador, writes that great distress exists there and urges that a movement be made to transport the inhabitants to the northwest.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

To-Morrow's Baseball, Cricket and Lacrosse Games.

A good-sized audience assembled in the Philharmonic Hall last evening to witness the wrestling match between W. B. Quinn, of this city, and Tom Connors, of Portland. The stakes were $500 and the championship of the Pacific coast; style, catch-as-catch can. Quinn was in his usual good condition, while Connors carried more beef than a Dutch sea captain. When the match commenced, at 9:15, it was easily seen that Quinn was much more than a match for his opponent, the latter acting altogether on the defensive. Connors eventually won the first fall by a counter hold. He had resorted to sprawling in order to prevent his opponent turning him over on his back. Quinn was in a kneeling position on Connors' left side trying to turn him over. Connors suddenly rose on his left elbow, threw his right arm around Quinn's neck and drawing the latter's head well down, with a body movement threw him over on his back, Quinn's heels describing a semi-circle in passing from one side of Connors' body to the other. Time, 11 minutes and 45 seconds. It was a pretty exhibition and called forth loud applause.

The second bout was won by Quinn in 4 minutes 55 seconds. Connors during most of the time lay on the floor like a log and simply exerted himself not to be turned over.

When the third bout commenced Connors was considerably winded and Quinn continued to force the wrestling. In the struggle the men worked over towards the footlights. The referee ordered them on to the canvass. Connors claims that he let go his hold to obey the order, but whether he did or not Quinn took a neck and leg hold, picked him up bodily, carried him to the centre of the stage and dropped him on his back, which was not a very fine exhibition of wrestling. The crowd protested very strongly against giving this fall to Quinn, but the little fat man did not want any more of it, although Quinn was quite willing to give him another one. Connors said he would wrestle Quinn in a few weeks for another $500 a side, when he would be in better condition. Quinn said all right, at any time and in any place. It was his misfortune to wrestle with men out of condition.

M'LEOD-SCHUMAKER.

The catch-as-catch-can match at Nanaimo last night between McLeod of Nanaimo and Peter Schumaker, was won in two straight falls by the former. Time of first bout 12 1-2 minutes; time of second bout 24 1-2 minutes. Cameron, who was present at the match, has signified his intention of challenging the winner.

TO-MORROW'S GAME.

The thirteenth game of the league series will be played at the Caledonian grounds, Beacon Hill, to-morrow afternoon. An athletic exhibition is to be given in these grounds to-morrow afternoon for the benefit of McIntyre and Irvine, and the game between the two baseball clubs will form part of the programme. In addition to this the Victoria-Tacoma cricket match will take place on the hill to-morrow and the baseball boys, in compliance with request, wish to give them full use of the grounds.

LACROSSE.

The Victoria Juniors will meet the Vancouver Juniors in a game of lacrosse on Beacon Hill to-morrow afternoon. The following is the Victoria team:

GENERAL NOTES.

Last evening the protests of the James Bay and Maple Leaf baseball clubs against decisions given by the umpire in favor of the Maple Leaf club were considered. The game between the James Bay and Maple Leafs, postponed from last Saturday on account of rain, will be played next week.

The Tacoma cricket club will arrive on the boat this evening and play the home team to-morrow at Beacon Hill. This is the first international cricket match which has taken place in Victoria for some time.

The Amities expect to play the Port Townsends at the port of entry some time next month.

Following are the list of players:

THE SNARE LAID.

After all, says the News: "The opposition may console itself with the idea that though it did not bag the game, it has learned how to lay the snares which will surely entrap it on the next occasion. This being the case it can well afford to let the new Premier devote his time to the elaboration of his policy and to the laying out of such a plan of work for the last session of the present legislature, that the voters may have no difficulty in deciding whether they shall again give expression to their confidence in the present administration." The News has just about hit the nail on the head. The opposition has forced the government to show its hand, and now being between the devil and the deep sea, the operations of the government in its endeavor to extricate itself from its perilous position will be watched by the News, we suppose, with interest.

GERMAN PATERNALISM.

The German reichstag, says the Oregonian recently, passed a workman's insurance bill, which is described as the completion of BISMARCK's system of state socialism. In 1866 BISMARCK, who appreciated and admired the genius of LASSALLE, promised, if the war with Austria was successful, he would in his own way try and do something for the working classes of Germany. This workman's insurance bill guarantees the working people of Germany against sickness, accident, infirmity and old age.

Bismarck began to move in this direction in 1881. In 1883 an initial measure, insuring against sickness, was made a law by the reichstag. Under this law, in return for a compulsory payment of not more than 1½ or 2 per cent. of the normal local wages, one-third of which payment must come from the employer, a workman receives during the period of sickness, provided this does not exceed thirteen weeks, one-half of the normal local wage, together with medicine and medical attendance and appliances. If the patient must be removed to a hospital, his immediate dependants receive one-half of his allowance.

In 1884 a law was passed, directed to insurance against accident. Under this law the whole of the contributions to the guarantee fund are imposed on the employers. For complete disablement caused by a casualty, the workman receives by way of pension two thirds of the wage he has been earning; for partial disablement an equitable proportion of the same. Should death be the outcome of the accident, the widow may claim 20 per cent. of the wages of the deceased, with 15 per cent. for each child, provided the whole sum asked for does not exceed 60 per cent. A vigilant supervision of the insurance fund is provided for by devolving on the fellow-workmen of the sufferer the duty of acting as assessors of the amount of disability.

The annual cost of administering this latest insurance act is computed at $2,500,000. The state has also to make good the contributions of insured workmen during their period of military employment, and this expense is estimated at $2,000,000. This scheme of paternalism in government is noteworthy because it has been organized and formulated by a great statesman who has been stigmatized as the exponent of the "blood and iron" rather than the philanthropic school of modern politics. If this scheme of state socialism organized by Bismarck can succeed anywhere in Germany, a country that is defined by the New York Sun as "thoroughly habituated to despotic institutions, and which offers for its administration a body of trained civil servants whose skill, industry and honesty are as remarkable as their bureaucratic insolence would be intolerable to any other people."

FAITH.

It has been said that faith will move a mountain. CHRIST said so, and we can conceive that if the kind of faith CHRIST had in mind was possible, a mountain might be moved. But such faith as CHRIST had in mind has no place in the imperfect moral and mental constitution of man. Only children possess it. The child asks and receives with the nonchalance born of perfect faith. Not so with the adult. The element of doubt pervades. What is granted through supposed faith is a surprise. The child who should ask a mountain to move would regard the compliance of the mountain as a matter of course. The man would regard such a manifestation of force with amazement and terror. Only that kind of faith is genuine which accepts the results of faith as the legitimate fruit of it. The child asks for a toy and receives it, as the necessary consequence of its faith. The man observing the mountain move, would be amazed. He would say this is more than I bargained for, I had no idea that faith was so powerful an agent. There was a drought once in a certain part of the country and it was given out that the parson would pray for rain. Of all the people who attended church on that occasion only one, a little girl, carried an umbrella. Asked by her elders why she had done so, she replied: "Is not the minister going to pray for rain?" Whether this instance of faith be true or not, it makes no difference. We see instances as remarkable in children every day, while as to adults, turn which way you will, none are carrying umbrellas. But in regard to faith moving a mountain, we are not to interpret CHRIST's remark in this respect literally. CHRIST never contemplated for a moment that the laws of nature should be suspended at the instance of faith. Man may possess himself of any thing he wants or should want through the operation of natural laws. He has no need to invoke the aid of the supernatural, and we observe that in every instance when he does he comes to grief. Natural laws do not suspend operation at the instance of any man however devout. Instance the case of the three ignorant negroes who were persuaded by their prophet to attempt to imitate SHADRACK, MESHACK and ABEDNEGO by walking into a fiery furnace. If true faith is peculiar only to children, then these negroes who were as children in point of intellect must have exemplified the highest form of it, but they were incinerated nevertheless. They are now vapor. They disappeared in smoke. So much for faith as being able to effect a miracle, and we may safely set down those who expect to set aside the laws of nature through such an agency as the victims of hallucination. Those who transgress natural laws must suffer. Sanctity grants no man supernatural power or immunity from disease. If sanctity and faith can preserve against disease, or cure disease, Father DAMIEN should not have suffered from contact with the lepers. In regard to nervous diseases, hypochondria and kindred complaints, faith through prayer may prove efficacious, because these diseases spring primarily from morbid conditions. The cure by faith, if effected at all, is the consequence of changing one morbid condition for another. Excitement has cured the toothache and sometimes fever. Ecstasy through prayer might and has probably done away with morbidity and the fancied ailments invariably connected with it. But the mere exchange of mere morbid conditions has never, nor never will, cure organic disease.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Allen Thorndike Rice, a few nights before his death was dining at Delmonico's with Mr. W. H. Rideing, when he is said to have told the following story: "Joseph Chamberlain was flattering John Bright on his style, and the latter deprecated the praise. 'I have no style,' said Mr. Bright, 'but Mr. Gladstone has. I sail along from headland to headland; but Mr. Gladstone carefully follows the coast line, and wherever he finds a navigable inlet he invariably follows it to its source, returning again to resume his exploration of the coast and to strike the headlands that I have raced for.'"

Had Mr. Davie been the immaculate individual he was painted by the government organ, he should have polled a larger majority than he did. Virtue should be rewarded by a bigger majority than 111 dead sure votes as represented in the officials and hangers-on of the government. But the moral effect of this election does not lie in the 111 majority merely. The government has been forced to formulate a policy, something it has religiously abstained from doing in the past. The opposition has now something to work on besides "general statements." If the entire province can stomach the government policy as enunciated, well and good; if it cannot, the sunset of Robsonism and the "dispassionate spectator" game he has been playing his already visible.

HOW FORTUNES GROW.

A Little Lesson in Arithmetic with an Application.

[Boston Globe.]

Many readers have probably never seen the illustrated story of the rich but miserly country gentleman who was constantly annoying his hard-working blacksmith about his high charges for shoeing his horses. One day the pestered farrier, as he was about setting a shoe, looked up and said: "Well, 'Squire, if you will pay me one cent for the first nail, and double the amount for each succeeding nail, I will be satisfied." "Go ahead," said the 'Squire, and the following is the result:

The application of this little object lesson to the marvellous increase of private fortunes in this country is very suggestive, when we remember that on the basis of the legal rates of interest fortunes "double up" once in eight years, and in the case of the great Crœsuses, who are bolstered up by franchises, monopolies, trusts, stock waterings, etc., they double up much oftener.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—James Shannon, Lansdsdale, writes: "For many years my wife was troubled with chilblains; and could get no relief until about two years ago; she was then not able to walk, and the pain was so excruciating that she could not sleep at night. Your agent was then on his regular trip, and she asked him if he could cure her. He told her Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was a sure cure. She tried it, and judge of her astonishment when, in a few days the pain was all allayed, and the foot restored to its natural condition. It is also the best remedy for burns and bruises I ever used."

—M. A. St. Mars, St. Boniface, Man., writes: "Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is a public benefit. It has done wonders here, and has cured myself of a bad cold in one day."

—Mr. Joab Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

—That "locum of the soul, the dinner bell," as Byron calls it, suggests no pleasing reflection to the dyspeptic, bilious sufferer. He partakes, of course, but the subsequent torment is egregiously out of proportion to the quantity of food he eats, which lies undigested, a weight like lead in his unhappy stomach. There is a remedy, however, and its name is Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. No case is entirely hopeless.

—One trial of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will convince you that it has no equal as a worm medicine. Buy a bottle, and see if it does not please you.

—Hard and soft corns cannot withstand Holloway's Corn Cure; it is effectual every time. Get a bottle at once and be happy.

Gratifying to All.

The high position attained and the universal acceptance and approval of the pleasant liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs, as the most excellent laxative known, illustrate the value of the qualities on which its success is based and are abundantly gratifying to the Cal. Fig Syrup Company.

D. 1888, is now due and unpaid in respect of the shares hereinafter specified, and that there is now due and unpaid upon the following described shares, on account of the said assessment, the several amounts set opposite the names of the respective holders of such shares, namely:—

PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHANCELLOR Browning, Commissioner for the C. P. R., has this the 8th day of July, 1889, issued a proclamation warning all persons from purchasing any lots from Samuel Greer in Lot 526, Group One. Now, may it please Your Lordship, I have never offered for sale any lots in said Lot 526, for that would be deception on the public, as the highest legal authority in British Columbia announced the title to that lot as not clear, but one cent as consideration being paid for it. Now, if Your Lordship will allow your writ and remove from your deep studies of Blackstone and the laws of estoppel, you will be able to see that the four Judges who threw your case out of Court last April were fully able to comprehend the difference between 526 and Pre-emption Record 1053, this being the identical number of my land on English Bay. Come down and see us, we have a few corner lots (with a smattering of coal) yet left. I mean to sell, and the public will persist in buying them, notwithstanding Your Lordship's decision. Things will move just the same at English Bay.

All parties are hereby warned that Angus and Smith have no title to Lot 526 till confirmed by the Legislature, and all sales will be void.

DISCUSSION.

Written for the TIMES.]

SIR,—Victoria, possessing many of the geographic and climatic advantages of advanced civilization, is not without journalists and orators and statesmen of exceptional ability. For many days the journalists and orators of this city have kept the very atmosphere filled with "thought wave," (as the psychometrician would say) of instruction, advice and warning to the voter that the commonwealth may be "saved." Discussion has followed discussion in rapid succession, until it is fair to presume that every voter knows exactly who to vote for to save the country and bless the people. Some "incidents" have occurred which reminds us of a famous remark made by one of America's most eminent citizens, Horace Greeley. Soon after his nomination for the Presidency of the United States, while reading the morning papers which were discussing his fitness for President, Mr. Greeley remarked, "Well, for the life of me, I cannot tell from the papers what I am running for; whether I am running for the Presidency or whether I am running for the penitentiary." Discussion, unquestionably, defeated the great and good Horace Greeley, but discussion by a free, intelligent public press elected a man with qualities better adapted to fill the position of President of the United States.

At this time (election day) it is impossible to determine what discussion has accomplished for Victoria, therefore we will diverge and speak of the benefits of discussion in a general way. What is it that will educate the people out of mental darkness and political servitude into intellectual light and moral independence? Discussion. What was it that freed the serfs of Russia? Discussion. What was it that broke the shackles and freed four million slaves in the land of the free? Discussion. What is it that has brought about every advancement and reform in science, politics and religion? Discussion. What is it that has forced many material scientists to cease to advocate "infidelity and agnosticism and to accept a knowledge of a "future life for man?" Discussion. What was it that forced eminent divines like the Rev. Dr. Ambrose to cease to teach that pernicious and dismal doctrine, that "hell is paved with infants skulls not one span long," and forced many of them to teach infinite love, charity and progress for all? Intelligent public opinion produced by discussion. What is it that has given women all the rights and privileges and opportunities which she now enjoys, which were denied her in the past? Discussion. What is it that will finally relieve society of that most unjust and infamous custom of recognizing two codes of morals, one for men and another for women, and place woman on an equality with her seducer? Discussion. Where should every subject be discussed, at proper times and intervals, which will educate, elevate and spiritualize and bless the human race? In the churches. Even in this lovely little island city, with its soft balmy Florida atmosphere, and its charming Italian sunsets, there exists many kind hearted people who object to the press or pulpit being used as a means to protect the families of drunkards or reclaim the fallen, or even to protect the virtue of the women. If to do this requires discussion of the subjects in the papers or the churches, and they insist we must have less dissipation but don't mention it. We must close the gambling hells, but don't mention it. We must redeem the fallen, but don't mention it. We must protect the virtue of our girls, but don't mention it in the press or pulpit. The above thoughts have been induced by criticisms which we have heard in reference to the propriety of the above mentioned subjects being discussed in the pulpit as they have been of late by some of the ablest and worthy divines in this city, especially by the reverend gentlemen, Starr and Rugg. A few liliputian intellects, covered by a number six hat and supported by number ten boots and a two bit cane, have discovered that the papers will lose their "dignity and influence" if they allow a discussion of the above referred to vices in their columns. We would say to the censured reformer and the defeated statesman, whoever he may be continue discussion with persistence courage and patience and if you are right victory will finally crown your efforts. You may at first lose your reputation, but your character you cannot lose. If "reputation" is all that you possess you will "go down." If you possess character enough you will rise.

How very changeful is reputation is evidenced by the following general rule. Conform to another's opinion and you are "wise," yes, a philosopher, but oppose him, and you are an "ignoramus"—"conceited bigot," perhaps "a fool." Believe a man's system of ethics and you are a "great thinker," a "metaphysician," but dispute with him and you have not yet "developed to the plane of reason." Assume to conform to another's idea of religion, and you are "saved;" but have an honest opinion of your own, and if it essentially differs with his "method" you are "wandering in the dark," you are "lost." Conform to the community's ideas of social propriety, and you are "virtuous"—are "respectable" but independently, conscientiously, and innocently, or even religiously step aside—or appear not to conform to its formal mandates, and you are "disreputable." Sustain "my bill"—in legislation, and you are a "statesman;" defeat it, and you have "sold out," are "bought up," or perhaps you may have "sense enough for a country lawyer." Publish a contributed article or an original editorial which "hits somebody," and you have not "prudence enough to run a newspaper," but try to secure the approbation of all, and your "paper is stale," it "lacks independence." Advocate opinions from the rostrum, press or pulpit which are popular, and, it matters not how absurd they may appear to you, you are a scholar—a benefactor—an educator—are repeated wise and respectable; but have the courage to criticise some popular folly which is dragging millions into vice, crime and misery and you are "personal, impertinent and presumptive"—quite likely "a consummate humbug." Elect my candidates to office and "the country is safe! prosperity is assured." Defeat my candidate and "the country will go to the dogs," ruin is certain, your "motives are questionable"—perhaps you are "stupidly sincere." In conclusion to there general rules, we would say, be a fawning sycophant to every person's opinions and you will be accounted a "clever fellow," but stand firmly by your own highest convictions of right, truth and justice; and although you may not gain the approbation of the world, you will always have a few true, devoted friends, who may differ with you in many things, yet appreciate your bold integrity and devotion to principle, which, in itself, is a great reward, but still greater is that of being befriended by your own conscience. Thus, as we have shown, do we rise or fall in the estimation of the world.

DR. T. CUMMINS.

Coal at Vancouver.

Prof. Dawson, of the geological survey was asked by a Vancouver reporter as to the prospects of good bituminous coal being found there, but he was reticent. He had seen the gentleman who is at present in charge of the work of boring for coal on English Bay, but was not in a position to divulge what information as to results had been imparted to him. He thought the time was hardly ripe yet to say anything, and considered it would be hardly right on his part to give away what particulars had been furnished him. He had no reason to doubt the fact of their being good "workable" coal underlying the whole township; but as to the depths of the veins and the best points of boring, tests and experiments alone could decide. He considered it was decidedly worth while to bore for coal, and had no doubt that proper tests would be attended with good results.

Arrived.

Bass XXXX Ale (Lamb's Wood) at the Occidental Hotel bar.

REVELSTOKE.

Very Unsatisfactory Condition of Affairs as to Titles.

The Kootenay Star is informed that letters are received almost daily from people at a distance who wish to buy property in Revelstoke. Some want it for immediate improvement, and some probably for speculation, but whatever the purpose of the inquiries may be the only and stereotyped reply is that there is no property here for sale; that Mr. Farwell, who surveyed the townsite and received his title from the province, will not sell, and that the Dominion government, which disputes the title of Mr. Farwell, is not in a position to sell. One law suit between these rival claimants has been won by the Dominion, and now another one has been instituted, and assertions are freely made that it will be carried through the highest courts and appealed, if necessary, to the Privy Council. And who can tell how many years will be required to bring it to an end?

Was there ever such a state of things before in any civilized community? The Dominion can't sell, Mr. Farwell won't sell, and the C.P.R. is standing anxiously ready to pick up any plums that may fall between the two. The site of the place must really be a good one if it can survive all these complications.

We are told, however, that we can "squat" on any lot we please, and make our improvements, and take our chances with whoever may win in the end. But who can be expected to put up a building of any importance on such conditions? The improvements will give increased value to the land, which should rightfully belong to the one who makes them, and who can say that the "squatter" will get the benefit of them? In whose hands would he be when the day of settlement came? Would it be Mr. Farwell, or his heirs? Would it be the syndicate or company which he is said to represent, or one of those corporations which have been proven to be without souls since the beginning of time? Who can tell?

We have no doubt of the fairness with which Mr. Farwell intends to act towards the occupants of townsite property, but would it not be better if some arrangement should be made between himself and the Dominion government under which a fair price would be fixed on the lots in dispute, at the time of their occupation, to any one who might wish to buy, and the title be confirmed to him or his assigns by the party who may succeed in winning the property in the court of last resort.

We understand a satisfactory arrangement was entered into between Mr. Farwell and the Sun-lite Co., which has been ratified by the Dominion government in council, applying to 320 acres of land, and we respectfully inquire if similar terms cannot be made in relation to the title of lots in Revelstoke?

Devoted to Science.

A new anecdote about Edison's absentmindedness appears in an American newspaper. After a brief courtship he married his first wife, and directly after the ceremony began thinking of some intricate problems. Without saying a word to his wife or the wedding guests he went into his laboratory and began work. Mrs. Edison knew her husband's eccentricities and becoming sleepy retired. When she awoke in the morning her husband was still absent, and he did not appear all that day or the following night. It was just 48 hours after the marriage had been performed that Mrs. Edison becoming alarmed decided upon going into her husband's workshop when she found the inventor lying on his workbench sleeping peacefully. His wedding clothes were covered with oils and chemicals. This angered her, and she roughly shook the sleeping sage. "Go away from me," he shouted, not knowing where he was; "Can't you see I am thinking?" I should say you were, Tommy," responded his wife. "Now, don't you think it about time you gave me a little attention?" "Well, I'll think about it, as you request," responded the inventor. "Now, please let me alone, for I fear I shall be forced to set the new double back action, self-propelling fire-hose all—all—" At this juncture, Edison suddenly came to, and jumping up exclaimed: "Who am I, where am I, and who are you?"

Big Ships from Eastern Seas.

The New York Mail and Express of recent date says: A monster sailing vessel called the Buckingham, of 2,900 tons, came into this port on Monday. The vessel was laden with jute and other East Indian goods. She had left Calcutta only one hundred and nine days before. The Buckingham is owned in Liverpool, and belongs to a type of iron vessels of which large numbers are being built in the British Isles. The largest vessel of the kind afloat is the Palgrave, whose best time from Calcutta to this port the Buckingham has surpassed by forty days. The Buckingham, like the other vessels of her class, is four masted and square rigged for all but the jiggermast, and carries but a limited number of men, twenty-nine on this voyage being sufficient for her wants. There was its promise to monopolize the Eastern trade, as they combine two very essential qualities—economy and speed. Another famous ship came into port on Tuesday from Yokohama, Japan. The Glenshiel, as she is called, of the well known Glen line, has won a splendid record as one of the fastest China vessels afloat. The Glenshiel is a steamship of 3,000 tons burden. When she came into port she was laden from stem to stern, carrying over 5,250 tons, or 40,800 packages of tea. She made the trip from Yokohama to New York in 59 days. She carries fifty-nine men besides her commander. Speed is on the side of the steam vessel. But the question is whether it may not yet be found that for those long voyages speed is too dearly bought.

1889-90

For the fall and winter trade of 1889-90 Messrs. A. Gregg & Son, Artist Tailors, Yates street, have just received a large and well-selected stock of imported woollens, comprising Scotch and English tweeds, fine worsted diagonals, new novelties in trousering and a large range of the most fashionable shades and designs of light and heavy overcoatings. Right here we wish to impress on the minds of the gentlemen of this province that this stock was never surpassed by any heretofore imported to this province, being the same goods as those sold by foreign manufacturers for the New York trade. Messrs. A. Gregg & Son invite an inspection of these goods.

A Party Hack.

The Nanaimo Free Press is a very fair sample of the government party hack. Not content with hurrahing for Mr. Davie, because he was successful, it cannot refrain from misrepresenting his opponent, for the reason principally that he was not successful. Here is a sample from one of its editorials: "The successful candidate nailed the Canada Western to the masthead, and like the immortal Nelson went in for victory or death. His opponent was just as pronounced in the opposite direction, and the vote of yesterday showed that but a small minority of the electors of Victoria are of his way of thinking on this important question. We say a small minority, because out of the 478 votes recorded for Dr. Milne, a large majority were cast on the opposition principle of being against the government right or wrong. Who ever heard Dr. Milne or his friends say anything against the Canadian Western?"

Elegant New Dining Cars

Will run daily, commencing Aug. 22nd, over the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co., Oregon Short Line and Union Pacific Ry., between Portland and Missouri River. The cuisine and service are unexcelled.

New Bridge.

Mr. Dan McGillivray, the well known contractor, of Vancouver, has obtained a contract from the provincial government for the construction of two bridges, one across the Cowichan river, the other across the Chemainus river.

New Residence.

Mr. George C. Mesher, the well-known contractor, was yesterday awarded the contract for a two story residence to be erected in Regent's Park for Mr. H. Dumbleton. The cost of the same is something over $13,000. Mr. T. C. Sorby is the architect.

Fine Fruit.

Mr. T. C. Sorby has laid on our table half a dozen plums of an enormous size and fine flavor, which were grown in his garden in James Bay. Several apples, also of a superior kind, testify to the adaptability of our climate to fruit raising.

Hymeneal.

The Sound steamer yesterday afternoon brought over a twain on a tender mission. The parties were James Martin Miller and Dora Kilinger, both of Seattle. After procuring the marriage license, the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. J. E. Starr at his residence.

Overboard.

As the steamer R. P. Rithet was making fast to the C. P. N. wharf last night, a ludicrous sight to many was witnessed. One of the deck hands, whose equipoise was slightly off, took a header into the water. After promiscuous angling for him with ropes he was landed, none the worse for the ducking.

The Tramway.

Preparations for the construction of the tramway are proceeding apace. Messrs. Snyder & Co. have completed their contract for getting out the ties and will bring them in from Goldstream next week. The curves are now on the way from Johnstown, Penn., and will arrive in due time.

Cheap Homes.

Mr. F. G. Richards Jr., offers a few lots in Victoria West on very easy terms. The property is near the water mains and within the same radius from the postoffice as other properties for which $800 per lot is asked. Victoria West is a growing suburb, property having trebled in value there in the last year or two.

Out on Bail.

Samuel Pearce, the young man recently committed for trial for alleged embezzlement from S. Schoen, a Douglas street grocer, was released from the provincial gaol yesterday afternoon, after confinement there for several weeks, the requisite amount of bail having been obtained. He will stand his trial before a jury at the fall assizes.

Prospecting the Fisheries.

The fish commission steamer Albatross has about completed her repairs at Port Townsend. She will at once commence her investigation of the fishing banks on the coast of Oregon and Washington Territory, with a view to ascertaining their commercial value. She will extend her investigations as far south as San Francisco this year, weather permitting.

The Walla Walla Libel.

The libel of William Hamilton vs. the steamship Walla Walla was argued at Seattle before Judge Hanford in chambers yesterday afternoon, and was decided by the libelant being awarded $3,000 damages. Hamilton is a longshoreman, and lost three fingers from his hand while assisting the discharge of a cargo of oil from the Walla Walla at Port Townsend on February 1st. He asked $10,000 damages, and received $3,000.

New Telephone System.

The new telephone system, by which subscribers will call up one another instead of it being done from the central office, will come in force on the first of next month. A subscriber wishing to speak with another will call up the central and ask the operator there to connect with so-and-so, after which he will put up the ear trumpet and ring. The party called up will answer by giving a ring before speaking.

The Ross Affair.

W. Leith Ross, the dapper young defaulter, was removed to the provincial gaol this morning with his extensive wardrobe. J. N. Bigelow, vice-president of the Nevada Bank, left for San Francisco this morning, and will not return. He took with him a copy of the securities that Ross levanted with, the originals still being here. Ross will take a Steady Trials on the charge of bringing stolen money into Canada.

From Port Angeles.

On Tuesday morning at one of the Dry Creek mills, near Port Angeles, a serious accident occurred by which three men, Nick Meagher, a sawyer; Albright, a jointer, and Hamilton, an engineer, were badly injured. The shingle saw was running at a high rate of speed, and bursting broke into a number of pieces, which were thrown about the mill.

The fires in the vicinity of Angeles have been raging for two weeks, and have done serious damage to fine timber claims, and many of the ranchers' cabins have been burned.

The town is looking up and the prospects for a bright future are promising. New people are arriving by every boat.

Reports from the Yukon.

The steamer Alki arrived at Nanaimo from Juneau yesterday, bringing the following advices under date of the 17th: Four Yukoners, J. J. Kelliher, B. H. Ryan, Harry Spencer and Daniel Dowd arrived at Juneau on the 15th via Chilcoot; thence in canoe. They departed from Juneau last May, went down the Yukon and up Forty-Mile Creek to Moose Creek, remaining there a short time, and turned back on June 22nd. The weather everywhere was warm, with little rain. All the tributary streams were unusually high from melting snow, washing away whole ditches and sluiceways. The diggings on Forty-Mile Creek were good, though the highest taken out by any one man this season was, so far, $2000. Considerable excitement prevailed concerning the Tenanah River, where rich diggings were struck. Pelly River is not favorably reported. On Stewart River only about thirty-five men are reported working, but are doing well. Placering is said to pay on Hunker Creek.

Story of a Victoria Chinaswoman.

A San Francisco dispatch says: Quite a sensation was created in Chinatown last night over a Chinese woman, the wife of a Victoria, B. C., merchant. She recently accompanied her husband to Victoria, when a member of the Yeng Twin society conceived the scheme of kidnapping and holding her for ransom. This was accomplished several days ago, and the woman was taken over the line and brought to this city, arriving last Tuesday. The husband sent a trusted employee after his wife. The latter appealed to the natives of the Yeng We society. The Yung We people could not find the woman and learned that a highbinder, who was arrested some months ago at Port Townsend while trying to smuggle two courtesans into this country, had arrived here on Tuesday night. The matter was called to the attention of the Chinese Companies, who held a conference, and ordered the surrender of the woman. It is said that the Yeng Tain society was authorized to surrender the woman for $3,000. This was refused, and the Chinese Six Companies gave the Yeng Tain the alternative of being crushed or of surrendering the girl. As the companies can keep their word, the girl was surrendered. She was taken back to Victoria to-day.

they catch the seal and bring it into the boat. If the seal sinks the gaff is run down and the seal hooked up. The British sealing vessels employ more Indian than white hunters. My experience with white hunters is not so extensive as with Indians, but from what I have seen while actually engaged in sealing, I can say that not over six in every 100 seals killed by white hunters are lost or escape. Experienced hunters seldom lose a seal, the losses are chiefly made by inexperienced hunters, only a few of whom are employed, for the reason that as hunters are paid so much a skin inferior men cannot make good wages. I have noticed no diminution in the number of seals during twenty years I have been engaged in the business, but if any change at all an increase. Of the sea's taken along this coast about one-half are females, and of the females not more than one-half are with young. In the Behring Sea, not one in a hundred of those taken by the hunters are females with young; because as soon as the females carrying their young get into the sea they go to the breeding islands or rookeries and in a few days their young are born. The cows remain with their young until they are quite able to take care of themselves. I do not think that out of the seals taken by Indians and white hunters more than 30 per cent. are females, actually breeding or capable of breeding.

"Old bulls," "bachelors," two year old "pups" and "barren cows" make up the great majority. Cows actually breeding are very watchful and while on the voyage northward are ever on the alert, so they are difficult to take. On the other hand the other classes above named, make up the great class of "sleepers" from which fully 90 per cent. of the whole catch of hunters is derived. I never saw or heard of a cow having her young beside her in the water either on the coast or in Behring Sea.

USING A KNIFE.

A Negro Sailor on the Bark George Painfully Stabbed.

A negro sailor, a native of the East Indies, was brutally maltreated on board of the bark George this morning. Shortly after the occurrence he appeared at the City Hall and related his experience. A reporter of this journal, who was present at the time, had ocular proof of the diabolical punishment he had received, in as far as the wounds were concerned. Requesting the unfortunate fellow to bare his body, a large gash in close proximity to the left armpit met the eye with sickening prominence. A smaller cut showed itself near the spine. He related the story of how the first mate of the vessel, a few minutes before, had used a knife on him because he claimed to be unable to work through sickness. The matter will be ventilated in court.

SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE.

Fifty Men Promised a Position That is to be Abolished.

It is quite well known there are a number of applicants for the position of Superintendent of Police, rendered vacant by Mr. Boycraft's flight, but very few people thought that the position, lucrative and "soft" as it undoubtedly is, would attract as many as 40 or 50 applicants, every one of whom is impressed with the idea that he is "The Man for Galway," or, in less poetical language, that he possesses every physical and mental qualification for chief of the provincial police. And, strange to say, every applicant received a promise either from Theo. or Honest John that he would in all probability receive the appointment, or if nothing quite so definite was said, the aspiring guardian of British Columbia law was assured that his claims were very strong and would be favorably considered. Every aspiring chief was told the same story, and as a matter of course there were forty or fifty very enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Theo Davie at the election on Wednesday last. But the election is over now, and the organ of administration very coolly tells these forty or fifty gentlemen that for economical reasons the government will not make any appointment. Their disappointment is, of course, very great. The only consolation they have is that there are a whole lot of them "in the swim." Misery likes company, and even disappointed office seekers have an affinity for each other when it is clear that they are all out of the race. What annoys them most is that they were fools enough to take Theo Davie's promise before the election. But it serves them right.
